Begins its tour around the state in March Bicentennial traveling exhibit coming to Elba in July 2018

Celebrating 200 years of statehood the "Making Alabama: A Bicentennial Traveling Exhibit" showcases Alabama's history through stories, interactive displays, programming and local exhibits.

The Alabama Humanities Foundation, in partnership with the Alabama Department of Archives and History and the Alabama Bicentennial Commission, is presenting the statewide exhibit, set to start in March of 2018, running through November 2019 — just before the 200th anniversary of Alabama becoming a state. The traveling exhibit will tour all 67 of Alabama's counties, offering up to three-week engagements in each host community.

The exhibit is set to open in Coffee County at the National Security Conference Center in Elba from Wednesday, July 4, through Wednesday, July 25.

"We are honored to get to host this exhibit in Coffee County," said Chamber executive director Sandy Bynum. "This is a significant event for our state and for the Bicentennial celebration. We look forward to the opening in Montgomery in March and Coffee County's participation July 4-25 at the National Security Insurance Conference Center."

Visitors will read about Alabama history and culture, they will hear, see and feel examples of it through use of audio clips and photo collages — new artwork composed of historic images from maps, photographs, postcards, book covers and so on. The goal is for 'Making Alabama' to excite interest in Alabama history, reflect its rich diversity of cultures and get people thinking about the future.

The exhibit features eight periods of history that defined Alabama as a state, stories behind people, places and culture that made a difference in Alabama, exhibits created by host communities, Alabama-made documen-

by Linda Hodge, Editor

Coffee County Commissioners began their meeting Monday morning, Feb. 12, by approving a resolution to recognize February as Career Technical Education Month in Coffee County.

Students, teachers and administrators from the three school systems in the county (Elba, Enterprise and Coffee County) were in attendance for this. After reading the proclamation, chairman Dean Smith presented a copy to a representative from each of the five participating schools (Elba, Enterprise, Zion Chapel, Kinston and New Brockton).

Sheriff Dave Sutton officially kicks off re-election campaign

by Linda Hodge, Editor

Coffee County Sheriff Dave Sutton addressed a large crowd Monday evening, Feb. 12, at the Coffee County Republicans meeting in Enterprise, and during that time, he officially announced his intent to seek a fourth term as Sheriff of Coffee County.

Sutton began his presentation by providing several statistics for the sheriff's office during his time in office.

During his three terms as sheriff, Sutton said the office had received 122,931 civil papers and served 123,630; received 27,521 warrants and served 25,147; taken 9,354 complaint reports and made 13,256 arrests; and he said the office had made 2,021 drug arrests since he became sheriff.

Sutton said his deputies had logged over 5 million patrol miles, and corrections mileage logged has been 667,018 miles during his time as sheriff.

As for the county jail, the sheriff said it recently underwent a renovation, and prior to that renovation, the capacity was 124 inmates. He said the current capacity is 156 inmates, and the jail has an average daily population of 135 inmates.

"We're going out there to campaign hard, and I believe we've earned the respect of the county," Sheriff Sutton said. "You've put me in office three times, and I'm asking you to put me back for a fourth term."

One thing Sutton said a sheriff must be able to do is manage a budget. He said he manages a $3.6 million operations budget. He said he is proud that with five audits by the Alabama Department of Examiners during his tenure as sheriff, there have been no findings on any of those audits.

Sutton said continuing education also is important for his deputies to stay on top of the daily needs for the community, and he said 6,280 hours of continuing education had been completed with him as sheriff.

Positive additions to the sheriff's office that Sutton said he is proud of include: six additional deputies, six additional corrections deputies, two school resources officers, two additional courthouse security deputies, a civil process server, five certified reserve deputies, one additional non-sworn clerk,

"There's no trick to being a humorist when you have the whole government working for you." – Will Rogers

A couple of weeks ago we noted that city hall was clamoring up about any details on the source of the funds used to give Elba electric power users a nice credit on their latest bill. Well they are still mum. Those of you who have asked "when are you going to print 'the rest of the story?'" ... well the answer is we don't know but are not giving up this easily. The latest answer Tuesday afternoon was that some out-of-town attorney has advised them to say nothing. Stay tuned dear readers.

Folks the qualifying deadline has passed and all the candidates Alabama voters will have to select from have stepped forward, put their name on the dotted line and will soon be on the campaign trail in earnest. We were surprised to see some incumbents didn't choose to seek reelection, other races got no, or token opposition, and then there are several races that have a bushel basket full of potential winners. There are candidates on the upcoming ballot that we just could not vote for at all yet we defend their right to seek public office. Some of those we would not support under any conditions will be elected – and do a good job. We also salute all those who signed the forms and paid their qualifying fees because by stepping up and offering themselves as public servants they are continuing a practice that has kept America free – and great for over 200 years.

Again this week we found our emotions defending President Trump. Oh, we are not trying to change our vote, but dear readers a stopped clock is correct twice a day. One of the 24-hour news channels was discussing some recent Trump comment, etc., and went on and on and on with it. As we clicked around the channels hunting something interesting to watch, their ranting continued. The Trump comment was something that could have been as innocent as someone commenting about the weather but according to that roundtable of grumblers it was proof positive that he should be taken before the firing squad or something like that (but only after hours of waterboarding). There is more of that type ranting, and more vicious, than there was during the Obama years.

The Choc Pea Watershed folks, working out of Troy, have released the records of January rainfall, and sure enough it was extremely low in South Alabama. Like everyone else in this area, we knew January was dry but didn't realize how dry compared to last year. The Elba gauge, located at the 84 Bridge across Pea River, recorded less than an inch this year compared to over 11 for January, 2017. The Lowery Bridge gauge, North of Elba, had an even wider gap, measuring a fraction less than the Elba gauge for this year compared to over 13 inches last year. It appears that the record goes to the Choctawhatchee gauge at Newton that received less than a quarter inch of water this year and over 14 inches last year. Not to worry, February is making up for the shortfall with some areas South of Coffee County reporting minor flooding.

An effort to stop receiving spam e-mails trying to sell some sort of marijuana juice or something has been a total failure. They are now sending out two or three offers per day. Even the so called emergency contact if all else fails ... also fails. After several weeks of trying, they are still coming faster. It is almost as bad as the girlie trash that embarrasses us even ... if we venture to open one of them to suggest they remove us from their mailing lists.

Alabama Daily News

There is exciting news for schools in Alabama. As you probably know, the Alabama Department of Education has now implemented a school grading system that allows families and communities to see just how well their local schools are performing.

Anyone can log on to ALSDE.edu to find an easy-to-understand A-F letter grade for their local schools along with information about how students are progressing in important areas like math, reading and college and career readiness.

Why is that exciting? Because our state education system hasn't had a simple way to measure success in a long time. And, after a state law was enacted six years ago to compel the Alabama Department of Education to create a letter grade system for schools, it has finally been implemented.

Imagine for a moment if ObamaCare or the recently passed tax cuts took six years to implement.

Bad news is good news

It shouldn't surprise anyone that many schools in the state didn't receive stellar grades. Overall, Alabama got a "C."

That's not fun news to be confronted with, but at least now we know. And, knowing the truth about how schools are really performing is the first step to making them better.

For the first time in a long time, parents, teachers, principals and community leaders can be on the same page about how their local schools are serving students.

I once heard former Florida Governor Jeb Bush say that of all the policy changes that helped spur his state's incredible ascent in education quality, implementing an easy-to-understand report card for school performance was the single most important.

How come? Because once parents understood exactly how their children's schools were really performing, they began demanding better. And nothing – not campaign promises from politicians or the best intentions of education officials – nothing is more powerful toward spurring real change at the local level than informed and determined parents.

An unexpected bad grade can actually be very good news for a community because it can be a starting point for making needed changes.

Don't miss the point

You might hear a lot of carping from some school officials about this change. The move toward publishing schools' letter grade report cards has irked many in the education establishment who say school performance is too complicated and not easy to decipher on a A-B-C-D-F grade scale.

Funny, I once tried that same excuse when my report cards came out.

In fairness, school officials are probably right that scoring school performance isn't easy. And, I don't blame some in the education establishment for being super defensive.

Talk of suffering school performance invariably leads to calls to clean house, and that's not always fair. However, don't parents and taxpayers deserve to know the truth about public school performance? And, how better to simply communicate performance than this universally understood code?

To complain about the grading system is to miss the point entirely. A grade gives you a starting point from which the real work of improving education can begin.

Perhaps now parents, principals, and community leaders can now start having long-overdue conversations about the local schools – whether they are properly funded and what can be done to improve them. Thomas Rains, Vice President of the A+ Education Partnership put it this way in a recent op-ed: "For parents, the letter grades offer an opportunity to ask educators: What can I do to help my child learn? What can I do to help the school serve its students well? For community members, ask yourself and ask your local school: What can I do to help make sure every child in my community is supported and goes to school prepared to learn? What role can I play to help all students in my community become ready for real life when they graduate?"

Onward

At least one Alabama city is seeing the report card for the positive opportunity it is, and it might surprise you to learn which one.

After receiving a disappointing "D" for Birmingham City Schools, Superintendent Lisa Herring and Mayor Randall Woodfin didn't complain about the grading system or offer excuses. Instead, they stood in locked-arm solidarity and took the bad grade as a call to action.

"We own this," Herring told the local news. "We'll transform. Birmingham Schools will continue to rise, but in doing so, we will be accountable."

Woodfin had her back. "I challenge everybody looking to start swimming in the solutions. The beauty of this moment is I'm flanked by a superintendent I 100 percent trust and believe in," he said.

With attitudes like that now running things, watch out for Birmingham.

Congratulations to State Rep. Terri Collins of Decatur, who sponsored the original legislation calling for an A-F school grading system. Kudos as well to the Alabama Department of Education for delivering a simple, user-friendly product.

Now, it's up to us to put this new tool to use and start asking the hard questions about how to improve education opportunities for Alabama students.

Hunters' help needed to keep Chronic Wasting Disease out of state of Alabama

The Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources reminds hunters that a regulation prohibiting the importation to Alabama of whole carcasses and certain body parts of any deer from a Chronic Wasting Disease-positive state now includes Mississippi.

The Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks recently announced that a deer in that state has tested positive for CWD. A portion of Mississippi is open to deer hunting through Feb. 15.

Because the most likely way of CWD being introduced to Alabama is through transportation, it has been illegal for decades for live deer to be imported into Alabama. To further combat the potential threat of the introduction of CWD into Alabama, prohibition of the importation of whole carcasses and certain body parts of deer from any CWD-positive state was implemented in 2016.

Parts that may be legally imported to Alabama include:

deboned meat; cleaned skull plates with attached antlers, if no visible brain or spinal cord tissue is present; upper canine teeth, if no root structure or other soft tissue is present; and finished taxidermy products or tanned hides.

CWD is a fatal neurological disease of white-tailed deer and other deer species, including mule deer, elk and moose. The disease is infectious, communicable, and always fatal for white-tailed deer.

Citizens can assist the Division of Wildlife and Freshwater Fisheries with its CWD monitoring program by reporting any illegal transport of live deer or elk on Alabama's roads and highways. Call the Operation Game Watch line immediately at 1-800-272-4263 if you see live deer or elk being transported in Alabama.

Deer infected with CWD will behave abnormally, often showing little of their normal wariness or fear of humans. For more information on CWD visit www.outdooralabama.com.

Craig Pittman

Florida journalist, author set to speak at Troy University on Monday, Feb. 19

Craig Pittman, a Florida environmental journalist, investigative reporter and author who is a Troy graduate, will speak Monday, Feb. 19, at Troy University's annual journalism symposium.

Pittman's topic will be "How to Be the Most Destructive Force on Campus: The truth may set you free, but don't expect everyone to like it." It is a reference to criticism he received during his time as a student journalist.

The public is invited to the symposium, which will take place at 10 a.m. in the ballrooms of the Trojan Center on the Troy Campus. Admission is free.

Pittman was born in Pensacola, Fla., and graduated from what was then Troy State University. He worked for two student newspapers, The Tropolitian and The Paper, from 1978 to 1981.

Since then, he says, he has "covered a variety of newspaper beats and quite a few natural disasters, including hurricanes, wildfires and the Florida Legislature."

Pittman has reported on environmental issues since 1998 for Florida's largest newspaper, the Tampa Bay Times. He won the Waldo Proffitt Award for Distinguished Environmental Journalism in Florida four times, and twice won the top investigative reporting award from the Society of Environmental Journalists.

He has also won three first-place "Charlie" awards from the Florida Magazine Association for stories he freelanced for Sarasota magazine.

He is the author of four books: "Paving Paradise: Florida's Vanishing Wetlands and the Failure of No Net Loss," co-written with Matthew Waite (2009); "Manatee Insanity: Inside the War Over Florida's Most Famous Endangered Species" (2010); "The Scent of Scandal: Greed, Betrayal, and the World's Most Beautiful Orchid" (2012); and "Oh, Florida! How America's Weirdest State Influences the Rest of the Country" (2016), which won the gold medal for Florida nonfiction from the Florida Book Awards.

Pittman lives in St. Petersburg with his wife and children.

"Craig has a constructive definition of 'destructive,'" said Steve Stewart, assistant professor of journalism and faculty adviser to the Tropolitian. "Journalism should be lively and get people's attention. It should tell the truth and serve the public. Some people would be happy for journalists to publish fake news if it's flattering or supports their agendas. Fact-based journalism is the furthest thing imaginable from fake news."

The Feb. 19 event is the University's M. Stanton Evans Symposium on Money, Politics and the Media, named for a TROY faculty member who was a national columnist, commentator, book author, and editor of the Indianapolis News. Stan Evans held the University's Buchanan Chair of Journalism from 1980 until his death in 2015.

MISSING SOMETHING?

This is Valentine's week! This Wednesday, we told and showed those we love how much they mean to us. But, if we only do so on an annual basis, something is dreadfully missing.

We've all heard of the wife who asked her husband "Do you still love me?" The answer: "Sure I do". "We'll then, tell me you do" she replied. His response: "I told you that when we married. If anything changes, I'll let you know".

Sadly, this is too often true in marriages. Hurts and offenses cause spouses to put up a non emotional wall. Couples are afraid to trust one another. Transparency becomes clouded for "safety" reasons. Something is missing.

The antidote for this is found in Ephesians 5:25-28. Paul said "...husbands... love your wives, just as Christ loved the church. He gave up his life for her to make her holy and clean, washed by the cleansing of God's word. He did this to present her to himself as a glorious church without a spot or wrinkle or any other blemish. Instead, she will be holy and without fault. In the same way, husbands ought to love their wives as they love their own bodies. For a man who loves his wife actually shows love to himself". Yes, in verse 22 wives are instructed to submit to their husbands "as to The Lord", and in verse 21 both are admonished to "submit to one another out of reverence for Christ". Boiling it all down, this basically means:

1. Husbands, lead your family. Willingly take responsibility for them. Let your wife and children know by your words and actions that you are determined to do whatever it takes to care for them, because they are that important to you. This includes spiritual leadership. Lead by example. Wives find it easier to follow when there is a servant leader.

2. Wives, let your husband lead. Don't nag him. Leadership is sometimes frightening, as husbands "get their feet wet", stepping into the uncertain and unknown for the good of those they love. Support your husband. Pray for him. Love him.

3. Work together. You're a team, and on the same side. So, this Valentine's Day and every day, be open and transparent with those you love. Show love with words, but also with actions. Love by example. Love with the noble, giving love of Jesus.

Celebrating Black History Month

with accomplishments by the late Madam C.J. Walker (born Sarah - Dec. 23, 1867 - died May 25, 1919). She was married at the age of 14-years-old, after a few years, gave birth to her only child named Lelia. After her husband passed, she and her daughter moved to St. Louis where she worked as a laundry woman. She joined the St. Paul African Methodist Episcopal Church where she sang in the choir and was greatly influenced by some of the Christian women of that church. At this time she developed a scalp ailment that caused her to start losing her hair. She began experimenting with various ingredients to create products specifically for the hair of African American women. As time passed, by 1906 her company had grown greatly. Madam Walker traveled throughout the U.S., Latin America, and the Caribbean marketing her products and developing new ones. She also started up a college to train women in how to use and sell the products. By 1910 she had one thousand sales agents. The company continued growing until Madam C.J. Walker was worth a million dollars. She became the first woman, black or white, who became a millionaire based on her own achievements.

Donations help support Alabama's Wildlife

You might not associate wildlife with doing your state income taxes, but there is a connection.

The Alabama Nongame Wildlife Fund check-off box on the state income tax form provides citizens a way to donate all or a portion of their state tax refunds for the benefit of nongame wildlife.

Alabama is home to more than 1,000 species of animals that are categorized as nongame - species that are not hunted, fished or trapped. The Nongame Wildlife Program, administered by the Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources (ADCNR), is responsible for many programs including conducting wintering surveys of bald eagles, shorebird surveys on the coast, and research on threatened and endangered species such as wood storks and red-cockaded woodpeckers.

The Nongame Wildlife Program does not receive any state tax dollars. It is partially funded by the citizens of Alabama through tax-deductible donations. In 1982, the Alabama Legislature enacted a law providing for the Alabama Nongame Wildlife Fund check-off box on the state income tax form. These donations are matched with federal funds, so even the smallest donation is valuable.

Past donations to the Nongame Wildlife Program helped bring back bald eagles, ospreys and bluebirds to Alabama, but many other nongame wildlife species still need help. If you enjoy watching wildlife, here is your chance to lend it a helping hand. Make a donation to the Alabama Nongame Wildlife Fund on your state income tax form.

For those not receiving a state income tax refund, tax-deductible donations can be made to Alabama's Nongame Wildlife Program, Alabama Division of Wildlife and Freshwater Fisheries, 64 North Union St., Montgomery, AL 36130. For more information, call 334-242-3469.

For more information about Alabama's Nongame Wildlife Program, visit www.outdooralabama.com/non-game-wildlife.

Business Council of Alabama commends Senator Richard Shelby

The Board of Directors of the Business Council of Alabama commended U.S. Sen. Richard Shelby of Alabama for his exemplary public service to Alabama since first being elected in 1970 to state and then national public office.

The BCA board on Feb. 7 voted unanimously to approve a resolution commending Senator Shelby for his distinguished public service career and for his staunch advocacy for conservative principles such as smaller government, strong opposition to bailouts, free enterprise, lower taxes, and his long-standing record of support for the right to keep and bear arms, his work to ensure secure national borders and uphold the rule of law against illegal immigration, and his support of pro-life legislation.

"Senator Shelby has always conducted himself on the national stage in a way that reflects the values, decency, and strength of the people of Alabama," BCA Chairman Perry Hand said. "During his service in the Alabama Legislature, his 39 years in Congress, including 31 in the U.S. Senate, Senator Shelby has significantly increased critical support for Alabama medical research and has transformed science, technology, engineering, and mathematics education at our colleges and universities."

Senator Shelby has consistently supported conservative Supreme Court nominees and played an instrumental role in nominating federal judges who fairly and equally apply the law and interpret the U.S. Constitution as written.

Senator Shelby has benefited communities across the state through support of countless programs involving economic development, community and infrastructure improvement.

They include the recent announcement to locate the F-35 fighter jet with the Alabama Air National Guard's 187th Fighter Wing in Montgomery, and the $1.6 billion investment by Toyota and Mazda in a plant in Huntsville resulting in 4,000 new Alabama jobs.

Senator Shelby has focused on making Alabama an essential hub for our national defense that includes both military and civilian jobs. He took the lead in securing Senate passage of the historic Tax Cuts and Jobs Act of 2017 that will deliver pro-growth, middle-class tax relief, reduce the tax burden on business, increase paychecks and Alabama's wealth.

"The BCA commends Senator Shelby for his extraordinary contributions, his dedication to our national security, and his service to the state of Alabama, its economy, and most importantly, its people," BCA President and CEO William J. Canary said.

of the things the local forestry office had done over the year, including fighting fires and educational programs.

Piland said his main purpose in addressing commissioners during Monday's meeting was to ask the county to donate a pickup truck it was planning to sell to the county forestry office.

Commissioners granted his request, and they voted to donate a 2013 Chevrolet Silverado to the forestry office.

County engineer Randy Tindell had a few items to bring before commissioners for approval.

Upon his request, commissioners approved two separate motions allowing the chairman to enter in funding agreements with the department of transportation for resurfacing projects. The first was for County Road 479 in the Kinston area from the Geneva county line to Highway 51. The second project was for County Road 342 from Highway 87 to County Road 349.

Tindell explained to commissioners that the company the county had contracted with for many years to service the caution lights around the county had gone out of business. He said this company would change the bulbs, etc.

With that said, Tindell asked commissioners to approve an agreement with the City of Enterprise for the city to now service the caution lights throughout the county. This was approved unanimously.

The final item the county engineer had for commissioners during Monday's meeting was for them to approve allowing him to place three vehicles on GovDeals.com for sale. This included two pickup trucks and one blazer.

Commissioners voted to advertise these vehicles for sale on the website.

County administrator Rod Morgan had only two items for commissioners to consider during the meeting. He noted each had been discussed in detail during work session gatherings.

Upon the administrator's recommendation, commissioners voted to execute an agreement for an interconnection between the Coffee County Water Authority and the City of Elba to the Ben E. Keith processing plant.

Also, commissioners voted to execute a contract with Coffee County Community Corrections for its services.

The next Coffee County Commission meeting will be Monday, Feb. 26, at 9 a.m. in the community room of the county complex in New Brockton.

Views From The Pressbox

By Ricky Mularz, Sports Editor

Our grandson Lawson hinted last week that valentines are really 'kind of for girls,' but said that he was going to hand them out to all his classmates and hoped he would get a lot of cards that had suckers with them. Candy is never in short supply at our house, and I am sure he will have something waiting the next time he comes to visit.

For what it is worth....

 The Elba Tigers claimed the area tournament title last week with an easy win over New Brockton to improve their record to 14-6. The Tigers third win over the Gamecocks was much like the first two as they took command early and coasted in with the victory over their cross-county rivals. Elba's quickness on both ends of the court was a major factor in the win, as was the Tigers overall depth and determination. The win put Elba only one win away from the South Region tournament, which would be quite an accomplishment for a team that starts only one senior.

 The Elba Lady Tigers also added the area tournament title to their regular season crown and upped their record to 11-6 in the process. The Lady Tigers got off to a slow start in the championship game win over Zion Chapel, but used its quickness and aggressive style of play to take charge in the second quarter, and then simply did what they do best—win. The win puts the Lady Tigers one win away from an appearance at the South Region, and that would be something to brag about for this team of young ladies that have grown up together on the court.

 Teams across the area were also on the court last week looking to advance, with New Brockton and Brantley moving on to sub-region play on the boys side, and Kinston, Zion Chapel and Brantley all advancing in girls play. New Brockton defeated Zion Chapel to earn the right to advance and Brantley downed Red Level, while Kinston surprised Houston County to punch its ticket, while Brantley won its area over Georgiana and Zion Chapel downed New Brockton to move on. That's a lot of teams that earned the right to advance, and means much more excitement for the players and their fans.

 The high school baseball and softball seasons are right around the corner, if the rain ever stops, and here in Elba both the Tigers and Lady Tigers are looking for improvement both on the field and in the scorebooks. The Tigers will be young in spots and aren't filled with experience, but are proud to wear the black and gold and will no doubt battle in every game they play, while the Lady Tigers are looking to turn the program around after a couple of down years and expect to be competitive every time they take the field. The success of the basketball teams kept a number of players from both teams on the court, and off the field, a little longer than expected, but the players and all athletes and will get back to full speed quickly.

 In closing.... Almost 80 applications were received for the vacant head football post at Elba High and the interview process began last week. While there is no real timeline, a new coach is hoped to be onboard by the end of the month. I have heard lots of names, including some from area schools, but won't pass them on since they may not want their fans, or more importantly, their administration, to know they applied. One thing is for sure, it has been fun to listen to those who think they know what is happening when nothing could be more from the truth.

Elba Tigers win area tourney title

The Elba Tigers concluded their season long dominance over area opponents last week with a solid 58-44 win over the New Brockton Gamecocks, to add the Class 2, Area 4 tournament title to their regular season crown.

Elba got off to a slow start and trailed 5-3 with 5:18 left in the first quarter after a 3-pointer by New Brockton's Jy'shan Nelson. However, the Tigers came to life after a pair of free throws by Walter Craighead tied the game at 5-5, and when Richmon Singletary scored on a short jumper with 2:17 remaining in the stanza the Tigers had opened up an 11-5 advantage.

The Gamecocks cut the Elba lead to 11-9 with 7:46 remaining in the second quarter on two free throws by Nelson, but New Brockton failed to score again for the remainder of the half, while the Tigers poured in 17 straight points to grab a lopsided 30-9 halftime lead. Seth Ware and Jay Jordan both drained long 3-pointers during the 17-0 run, while Alex Wright muscled inside to score five points as Elba took command.

New Brockton's Caleb

Hurley scored seven points early in the third quarter to help the Gamecocks pull within 33-18, but Elba's Richmon Singletary sparked a 9-0 run that gave the Tigers their biggest lead of the game at 42-18 with 2:01 left in the stanza, and Elba carried a 45-22 advantage into the final stanza.

Elba's lead grew to 48-22 with 7:28 left in the fourth quarter after a basket by Richmon Singletary, and while New Brockton cut into the lead late behind the scoring of Nelson and Colton Marsh, the Tigers never lost command and coasted in with the impressive 58-44 win.

Richmon Singletary scored 18 points and Seth Ware added 10 to lead Elba, while Jy'shan Nelson scored 15 and Caleb Hurley added 14 for New Brockton.

Gamecocks and Lady Rebels advance to sub-region play

The Class 2A, Area 4 basketball tournament tipped off last Tuesday night at the Elba High gym with the Zion Chapel Lady Rebels and New Brockton Gamecocks posting opening round wins.

Following are highlights of both games:

Girls Tournament: Z.C. 25 N.B. 24

The Zion Chapel Lady Rebels used a late 3-pointer from Janna Miles and free throw woes by New Brockton to survive with a 25-24 win over the Lady Gamecocks, in opening round action.

New Brockton grabbed a 7-4 lead midway through the second quarter on a 3-pointer by Dashia Nelson in the low-scoring half, and by the time the halftime horn sounded the Lady Gamecocks were in control with a 13-6 advantage.

Zion Chapel's Willow Johnson scored four points in the third quarter to spark a Lady Rebel rally that sent the game into the final stanza tied at 14-14, and the Lady Rebels extended their lead to 19-14 with 4:50 remaining after a 3-pointer by Alexis Barker and baskets by Salina Roberts and Willow Johnson.

The Lady Rebels were still in control with a 25-21 lead with 2:12 left on the clock after a 3-pointer by Janna Miles; however, New Brockton went to the foul line a total of eight times in the closing minutes with a chance to pull out the win, but hit only three of its eight free throw opportunities, as Zion Chapel held on for the 25-24 win.

Willow Johnson and Janna Miles both scored 8 points to lead Zion Chapel, while Dashia Nelson scored 7 points for New Brockton.

Z.C. (25): Baker 2, Rugg

N.B. (24): M. Gray 2, J. Gray 3, McKenna 2, Chism 5, Nelson 7, Gosha 5.

Boys Tournament: N.B. 51 Z.C. 19

The New Brockton Gamecocks used a 17-0 first quarter explosion to take command and never looked back in a lopsided 51-19 opening round win over the Zion Chapel Rebels.

Zion Chapel went up 2-0 early on a basket by Hunter Sheets, but that was the only basket the Rebels would manage in the opening quarter as New Brockton's Kari White and Billy McKenna sparked a 17-0 run that put the Gamecocks on top 17-2.

The Rebels cut into the lead and got as close as 19-11 midway through the second quarter behind the play of Nathan Grantham and Joey McCrory. However, the Gamecocks closed the half with a 13-0 run, highlighted by a long 3-pointer at the buzzer by Jy'shan Nelson, and at the half owned a big 32-11 advantage.

A 3-pointer by the Rebels Matt Richburg was the only field goal of the third quarter for Zion Chapel as New Brockton remained in command, and the Gamecocks outscored the Rebels 9-2 in the final stanza to cap off the lopsided 51-19 win.

Jy'shan Nelson scored 15 points to lead New Brockton, while Joey McCrory scored 7 points for Zion Chapel.

N.B. (51): Nelson 15, Marsh 9, McKenna 2, Hurley 5, Weeks 8, Nolin 2, White 5.

Improve record to 11-6

Lady Tigers claim area tourney title

The Elba Lady Tigers made it a clean sweep of area crowns last week as they defeated the Zion Chapel Lady Rebels 55-28 in the finals of the Class 2A, Area 4 tournament to add the tournament title to the regular season crown.

Elba jumped out to a quick 4-0 lead in the opening quarter on baskets by Kira Starks and Sandra Lindsey, but failed to score again for almost five minutes and watched as the Lady Rebels grabbed a 7-4 lead as Willow Johnson scored four points and Lexi Rugg drained a long 3-pointer.

Elba's Laken Cooks scored two buckets late in the quarter to put the Lady Tigers back on top 8-7 by the end of the stanza, and when Sandra Lindsey connected from behind the arc Elba was back in command with a 13-7 advantage.

A 3-pointer by Zion Chapel's Alanah Bunce cut the Elba lead to 13-10 with 6:40 left in the half, but the Lady Tigers went on an 8-2 run to move ahead 21-12 with 3:57 left in the quarter, and after a long 3-pointer by Breanna Sanders late in the quarter carried a big 28-15 advantage in at the half.

Elba's lead grew to 33-

16 early in the third quarter behind the scoring of A'Maysia Whitfield and Laken Cooks, and then went to 24-points only moments later as a 3-pointer by Cooks sparked a 7-0 run that put the Lady Tigers on top 40-16 with 2:35 remaining in the quarter.

Elba's Laken Cooks and Kira Starks sparked an 8-0 run early in the fourth quarter that enabled the Lady Tigers to stretch their lead to 52-18 with 4:55 left on the clock, and while Zion Chapel outscored the Lady Tiger reserves 10-3 in the closing minutes behind the play of Janna Miles, Elba easily held on to claim the tournament title with the 55-28 win.

Laken Cooks scored 19 points and Sandra Lindsey added 11 to lead Elba, while Janna Miles led Zion Chapel with 7 points.

Coffee County Sheriff Dave Sutton addresses a large crowd in attendance for the Coffee County Republicans meeting Monday night in Enterprise. The sheriff provided stats from his three terms in office and officially kicked off his campaign for a 4th term.

contract medical staff, and corrections K9, as well as, the addition of an aviation unit [four volunteer pilots, and one volunteer mechanic], Project Life Saver, mounted search and rescue unit, a rescue boat for the county, UTV, unmanned aircraft system, and offender watch, sex offender registration and community notification.

Sheriff Sutton said all his deputies are equipped with patrol rifles, and tasers; vehicles are equipped with laptop computers for reporting, traffic, investigations, etc.; and the office has an FBI National Academy graduate, a firearms instructor, active shooter instructors, church security training, specialized narcotics training, and hazardous materials certified deputies (meth labs).

Another stat Sheriff Sutton said he is very proud of is the volunteer units. He said the sheriff's office has 25 reserve deputies on board with five APOST Certified, and a 25 person Mounted Search and Rescue Posse.

He said all time is volunteered from these dedicated public servants, and they supply their own uniforms and equipment.

Sutton said these units provide invaluable additional security at school sporting events, and assistance with the patrol division as needed.

"I am looking forward to another four years as sheriff," Sutton said as he concluded the statistics portion of his speech. "We don't just work...we are a family out there. There is not another county that I wouldn't put our people against."

In January, Sutton was elected president of the Alabama Sheriff's Association, and he said that is not only an honor for him, but it also would place Coffee County in the forefront of the state over the next year.

Sutton officially "kicked off" his re-election campaign Monday night at the Coffee County Republicans meeting.

"We're in this race to win," Sutton said. "We're going out there to campaign hard, and I believe we've earned the respect of the county. You've put me in office three times, and I'm asking you to put me back for a fourth term."

Sutton said if re-elected, he would continue to do the best job he can to keep the people protected in this county. He said his priorities continue to be children, adults, and animals.

A couple of issues he said he would continue to work on to find help for the counties include jail overcrowding and the mentally ill. He said more facilities are needed at the state level on both of these to keep the lack of somewhere to take these people from falling back on the counties.

The sheriff said the fight against the illegal use of drugs would remain a priority for him as sheriff. He said meth was the big problem when he first took office, and while that has been combated some, the big issue now is illegal use of prescription drugs.

"We've made 2,025 drug arrests with me as sheriff," Sutton said. "That is a lot of drug arrests, and I will tell you the conviction rate is greater than 95 percent. That comes from the DA's office — those guys to a great job."

A resident of Enterprise for more than 30 years, Sutton has served as sheriff for the past 12 years. He thanked his wife for being in attendance Monday evening to help him get his campaign officially underway, and he thanked his staff for their hard work and dedication to the people of this county every day. He said these people are the true heroes as the go into the fight each and every day to work to protect Coffee County's citizens.

Troy King announces candidacy for Alabama's Attorney General during event in Elba last Thursday morning

by Ferrin Cox, Publisher

Troy King came home to Elba last Thursday, Feb. 8, to announce his entry into the Alabama Attorney General race.

The announcement event was held at the National Security conference center.

King served as AG for six years before losing a re-election bid. Early in his announcement remarks he said he was, "Doing it because I love Alabama."

He added that he thinks it is time to begin to fix what is wrong with this state.

The former Attorney General has maintained a private law practice since leaving the AG office in 2010.

King signed his qualification papers that are required to seek office and addressed a crowd of approximately 100 supporters at the Elba event.

He was appointed Attorney General to an unexpired term in 2004 and then filled the office for four years as the elected AG from 2006 until 2010.

Referring to the culture of corruption that has clouded state government recently, he said, "the last eight years have been filled with politicians putting their own interests ahead of ours. We watched as politicians passed a new ethics law which they thought nobody would notice when they turned around and broke it."

Always an outspoken supporter of victims of crime, he noted he has attended more than 50 parole hearings since going into private practice, and he said he has been there to object to the release of violent criminals.

"I have been there to stand with victims of crime over and over before the Board of Pardons and Paroles," King said. "I have stood against the release of some of our state's most brutal and heinous criminals."

He explained that his campaign will focus on his intent to work closely with law enforcement officials to prosecute violent criminals and to restore integrity and respect to the State of Alabama.

"We have been the butt of embarrassing jokes for too long," King said. "I think it is time for that to end."

Three others also are seeking the Republican nomination. The winner of the Republican primary will then meet the Democrat candidate in the November General Election.

New Hope Community resident arrested Tuesday, Feb. 13, on federal gun charges Authorities arrested a New Hope Community resident earlier this week on federal gun charges.

According to Coffee County Chief Deputy R.W. Whitworth, Bradley [Brad] Neal Eagerton, age 36, of the New Hope Community in Coffee County was subject to a vehicle search Dec. 13, 2016 by Coffee County Narcotics Investigators and ALEA Investigators. He said a search of Eagerton's vehicle revealed a rifle.

"The case was forwarded to the Alabama Tobacco and Firearms Agency [ATF], which presented the case to the Federal Grand Jury," Whitworth said. "Eagerton was indicted."

On Tuesday, Feb. 13, this week, Coffee County Investigators, ALEA Agents, Alabama Game and Fish and US Marshals served the warrant at a residence in the New Hope Community. A search warrant for that residence was obtained and more firearms were seized.

Whitworth said Eagerton was arrested and transported to Montgomery by US Marshals on federal gun charges.

NOTICE:

Due to our attendance at a day-long conference, The Elba Clipper office will be closed Friday, Feb. 16 (tomorrow).

The office will be open at 8 a.m. Monday, Feb. 19th.
